Spreading the Gospel through Partnership

It is not too often that someone is recognized for their sacrifices. There are people who give of themselves, and their resources not looking for any acknowledgement, they give simply out of their love for others. That person only sees an opportunity to share. Smiling when they see peace, comfort, even reassurance displayed on the face of the one or even the many they helped.

Paul acknowledged the church of Macedonia for giving to help the saints in Jerusalem despite them dealing with their own tribulations, they voluntarily gave to aid others. (2 Corinthian chapter 8).

This type of giving is what helped Paul and others in the Bible to spread the Gospel. There are many, many ministries in need of financial gifts of support. There are also many unrecognized givers who again do it because of their love for Jesus.

Ministry is costly, yes, but seeing lives, the very souls of people transformed should always be worth the gift. Acts 20:35

I want to recognize the partners of JLP Ministries for your willingness to share the Gospel of Jesus Christ, through your gifts of prayers, love, encouragement along with financial support. Thank you for showing others it is worth the investment to see lives transformed by spreading the Gospel.

Hugs,

Prophetess Jacqueline L. Price

LOOKING BACK

People cannot see where they are going because they are so busy looking back, they cannot see. They are constantly looking back; looking back in regret, looking back at what I did not do back then. Father said I just want you to move forward do not look back. You cannot change what was back there, but you can produce, and you can change where you are going, you cannot change looking back, but you can follow my directives and go where I am taking you too, stop looking back. Keep moving forward, moving forward. You got to keep moving forward.

People go into replay, replay; remember when? Remember, remember, remember. Father said that is why they do not go forward; they are so busy back there. I give you a brand new mercy, a brand new morning and what do my people do, they spend time talking about what was going on yesterday, but I gave you a brand new mercy a brand new morning for a new day, to do something brand new, because you can't change what you didn't do yesterday.

My people spend years looking back, they are not looking at what I want to do today, because they are so busy remembering last year. What they did not get done last year, what they should have done the year before. I cannot give them a brand new year, because they are so busy concentrating on last year. That is what you call wasting time, He said, that is how time begins to be wasted, How Satan robs you of your time, because you are so busy back there, even if it is just a glimpse or a moment, that is all he needs, is a glimpse or moment to get your mind going back. Listen to people when they talk, the majority of the time what are they talking about? The past, the past, whether it be yesterday, that is past, isn't it?

The majority of the time my people are talking about past, not now, not present, not forward, but past, and Satan knows this. You cannot change the past, but you can move in now, and move forward, and be in the present.

They regret spending money, but you cannot take back the money it is already gone, he said so I can't produce more because they are so busy regretting the past, 'if I hadn't wasted that, if I hadn't done that, if I had did this with the money,' you can't change it, it's past, but when I give you more; now what are you going to do with what I give you then – that's what matters. Learn from the past, but do not keep playing back there.

"Prophetic Word"

Father said people are living in hurt because they are in their past; I want to heal them, heal them of their hurt, but they start talking about the person that hurt them in the past, so they can't get healed of the hurt now, because they are still talking about how you hurt me back then; where is their hurt, their hurt is in the past? So, no matter what that person may be trying to do in the present, in moving forward that individual is looking at what that person did to them in the past, the hurt is back there. They cannot go forward; they are so busy wanting that person to deal with what they did in the past. So, whose captive? Both are captive. Satan is holding them both captive about their past. It could be yesterday's hurt, but they are still there, why? There is no forgiveness, they say I have forgiven you of what you did, but if you have forgiven you have released them from the past. The past is shackles around their ankles; the past is shackles around their arms, it's linking them downward that they can't move forward, because they are so chained to the past, it could be yesterday's past, but they are still chained to it, because you must have a heart of forgiveness.

Those things tie you down, and they weigh you down, so why hold on to something that is going to weigh you down?

So many people are dragging, dragging their past everywhere they go, they cannot even get to where I want to take them, because they are dragging their past everywhere they go. How can I do a new thing when old things are in the way? He said my scripture tells you plainly you cannot put new wine into old wineskin (Matthew 9:17), so how can I do a new thing when old things are in the way? I even say in my word forget the former things, I want to do a new thing, but people drag that old right there with them (Isa. 43:18-20).

They are really not in the new, they are not in the new; they are between the new and the past, so there is a gulf and a gap right there because they won't let the old go so they can get directly into the new, there's space, there's space, so see Satan has a space between their minds they are talking new, but they are living old, hear what I said, they are talking new things but they are living old ways. They are living in the old; they will not let the old go.

"Healing The Brokenhearted"

As I look around the world, and depending on where you live, at times it's such a beautiful place (mind over matter). However, it seems like so many people are suffering with grief. There are several stages: shock, denial, pain, guilt, anger, bargaining, and depression; then there's the upward turn, reconstruction, working through, acceptance and hope. How are you holding up and where are you?

Someone lost a mom, dad, sister, brother, niece, nephew, grandmother, grandfather, aunt, uncle, their newborn baby, teenage kid, adult child, or even a pet, it's just so much loss. Everybody's passing away.

Although we say we are rooted in, and have God as our sure foundation, it's ok if you want to break down. The grief of loss is so hard, and its great impact affects people all over the world, not only the people of God. We can love God so much, but the pain and sorrow for someone that you loved dearly as a friend, family member, or associated with breaks your heart. Then we question God and there's no answer. We must be strong... No! You really don't have to...Abba sees you and He's comforting and concerned about you... He tells us to, but we have choices, and He knows we are in human flesh.

We know God's word and we understand there's an appointed time to be born and an appointed time to die, there's an appointed time to live, laugh and cry. You'll find that in Ecclesiastes 3:1-8. The reality for those that are still here (in this world) is, we must live and stay alive (not give up). Holding on to the memory of our loved one that is sleeping, and waiting for the great trumpet to sound. 1 Thessalonians 4:13-18: 13 says; But I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them which are asleep, that ye sorrow not, even as others which have no hope. 14 For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him.15 For this we say unto you by the word of the Lord, that we which are alive and remain unto the coming of the Lord shall not prevent them which are asleep.16 For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first:17 Then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord.18 Wherefore comfort one another with these words. No one knows when that time comes but we should always be ready.

"Healing The Brokenhearted"

I'm in a grief season myself. Woo Lord! Keep holding me because I feel weak. I've lost 4 people within the last month and a half. One being my oldest sister. I have questions to ask her. I want one last hug. I want to say, "I love you" and hear a response. It wasn't an option, and it wasn't a choice. God says time to rest and that settles it! You must learn to be OK with the decision that Christ makes that it is time for your loved one to rest.

I don't know what's coming, but something is coming. Pay attention to the atmosphere around you. The Lord is preparing the remnants of the ones here on earth. He desires for us to keep walking by faith, keep looking at Him, not being moved by what you see, and to walk in this beatitude in Matt 5:4 Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted. Know this, Psalms 34:18 says The LORD is near to the brokenhearted and saves the crushed in spirit.

God knows that your heart is broken. God knows that you're sad. He says in Ps 56:8 You keep track of all my sorrows. You have collected all my tears in your bottle. You have recorded each one in your book". So, during this season of loss in your life, He tells us to run to Him, He said that He would leave the comforter (the Holy Spirit) so make sure that during your season of loss and grief, if you say that you are a believer in Christ, use your resources, open your mouth and cry out to Father God, I promise you He will meet you where you are.

You'll feel the real presence of the living risen savior in your space comforting you, just believe and walk in the surety of knowing that He's there with you, and He is concerned about you, and your tears are not tears of someone who does not have hope, but of someone who believes while they grieve, that the God that we serve is going to come and allow us to be with those that we have lost.

There will be bad days that hurt your heart, and there will be good days that make you laugh until you cry. Either way call on the name of Jesus and watch the Spirit of Him (the comforter) show up. Heal my brother, heal my sister. Don't allow depression to creep up on you, just do life one day at a time. It still hurts and my heart is broken but I know the heart fixer and I will allow Him to minister to me every day as you should too. I refuse to say that I love Him and not place myself before Him and let Him do a complete work in me. So, I wait for the day that the pain turns into a fond memory, and a hope to see one day all those that God ALLOWED to be a part of my journey while here on earth. I pray you do the same. If you are reading this, I believe in YOU. Be whole and Be healed not only because of loss but BE whole in every area of your life. YOU are loved by Abba and Me!
